Abstract 【English】

The Osaka University UNESCO Chair in Global Health and Education was launched in October 2018 primarily to promote the health of children and young people within the context of their schools and communities. This paper reports on a research project on Comprehensive Sexuality Education (CSE) involving experts as co-researchers in Japan, China, Lao PDR, Nepal, the Philippines and Indonesia. Specifically, we report here on three 90 minute on-line workshops conducted in August and September this year with our experts to study the UNESCO vision of CSE outlined in the International Technical Guidance on Sexuality Education, revised edition and clearly identify the requirements for and challenges of preparing teachers to implement the vision contained within this document. We will report on the general and country specific challenges, and our initial ideas for supporting the training and resourcing of teachers who are tasked with implementation of sexuality education.
